

Temple Jeremiah More Resources/March 2021

Continuing to Learn/Jena Doolas

Sent Before Session

As you learn, keep a journal with you to:

- note resources that come up that you want to explore next
- remember your questions that will then guide your own personal journey
- reflect upon questions that are asked of you from these resources
- list your next steps for you, your family and your community

- 1) 21 Anti-racism Videos
- 2) Understanding Racism Booklist
- 9) Unpacking the Invisible Knapsack by Peggy McIntosh
- 10) The Danger of A Single Story

Remember, we are ALL on this journey together, no guilt, shame or blame only DO. Speak from your own experience, remember that there is more that you don't know than what you do know, there is no hierarchy of experience, racialize your experience and continue to breathe.

NEW RESOURCES AFTER SESSION

The following list is just what has come to my mind for places to continue learning. This is not where you NEED to start or ALL where you can learn.

20 Picture Books for 2020: Readings to Embrace Race, Provide Solace & Do Good

Article/Feb 2019: The Cat is Out of the Bag: Orientalism, AntiBlackness, and White Supremacy in Dr. Seuss 's Children 's Books

Article/March 2021: And she would walk 1,200 miles: Emily Ford reflects on 69 days hiking Wisconsin's Ice Age Trail

Video Asian American Racialization: A 5-Minute Explainer

The history of racialization of Asian Americans is interconnected with the histories of other minoritized communities. In her seminal work, Dr. Claire Jean Kim describes the triangulation of Asian Americans. This video is a 5-minute explainer created by Shengxiao "Sole" Yu on Asian American triangulation, for the purpose of gaining a deeper understanding of our shared history, our intertwined humanity, and our connected liberation.

Podcast: Louder Than A Riot

Rhyme and punishment go hand in hand in America. Louder Than A Riot reveals the interconnected rise of hip-hop and mass incarceration. From Bobby Shmurda to Nipsey Hussle, each episode explores an artist's story to examine a different aspect of the criminal justice system that disproportionately impacts Black America. Hosted by NPR Music's Rodney Carmichael and Sidney Madden, this podcast is invested in power from all angles — the power the music industry wields over artists, the power of institutional forces that marginalize communities of color, the power of the prison industrial complex and the power dynamics deep-rooted in the rap game.

Podcast: Latina USA

Latino USA is a nationally syndicated public radio program and podcast produced by The Futuro Media Group and distributed nationwide by the Public Radio Exchange, after 27 years of being distributed by NPR. The program is anchored by Maria Hinojosa.

Podcast: Codeswitch

Code Switch is a race and culture outlet and a weekly podcast from American public radio network NPR. It began in 2013 with a blog as well as contributing stories to NPR radio programs. The Code Switch podcast launched in 2016. In the wake of the George Floyd protests, it became one of NPR's top ranked podcasts
